BLUEGRASS ON THE FARM Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer Join The Jezic Ensemble"

BALTIMORE – On Sunday, April 27, 2003, at 3:00 p.m. The Jezic Ensemble with Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer present BLUEGRASS ON THE FARM, an open air concert at Spring Meadow Farms, 11513 Hanover Pike, Upperco, Maryland. Approximately 10 minutes from the Baltimore beltway. Bring a blanket and enjoy the farm zoo, ice cream, basket raffle, pit beef, and more. $12 before April 15 or $15 at the door; $12 for seniors and students. Group rates are available. For tickets, call 410-374-9059.

From the Baltimore beltway (I-695), take exit 19 (I-795) to end of expressway. Go through the first traffic light. At second light go left onto Rt. 30 (Hanover Pike). Follow the signs toward Hampstead for 5 miles to the big blue farm market and Greenhouse.

Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer (www.cathymarcy.com) have been making music together since 1984, with over 10,000 performances between them. They are consummate musicians on guitar, five-string banjo, mandolin, hammered dulcimer, steel drums, and other old-time instruments. Their superb harmony singing punctuates an expansive repertoire.

"As good as the harmony singing is, the instrumental picking is even better."
– The Washington Post

Under artistic director Margie T. Farmer, The Jezic

Ensemble (www.jezicensemble.org) blends professional and amateur voices of 30 women who live and work throughout the Baltimore metropolitan area, primarily in north Baltimore City and the Towson area of Baltimore County. A Silver Spring-based branch of the choir was recently formed. Members of both groups will perform at this concert.

Formerly the Chestnut Ridge Women's Choir created five years ago by Farmer, The Jezic Ensemble presents to mid-Atlantic area audiences an eclectic repertoire spanning virtually every musical genre, yet always featuring the work of women composers or music composed for women's voices. Its mission is to bring the tradition of women in music to mainstream audiences.
